Within five (5) days the court shall examine the offender's complaint to determine if the statements of the victim proffered by the offender could reasonably be construed as sufficient to overcome the victim's immunity conferred by this section. (2) If the court finds that the victim's statements to the board of parole or a panel of the board may reasonably be construed as intentionally and maliciously false and defamatory, it shall allow the cause of action to proceed. (3) If the court finds that the offender has not produced sufficient evidence to overcome the victim's immunity conferred by subsection (a), it shall dismiss the cause of action with prejudice. (4) If the court finds that, not only was the action without merit but was brought for the purpose of intimidating, harassing or abusing the victim in violation of Article I, § 35 of the Constitution of Tennessee, it: (A) Shall notify the appropriate warden of the offender's institution and recommend disciplinary action against the offender, including the loss of sentence reduction credits; and (B) May prohibit the offender from filing any future actions of a similar nature in the court.  Tenn. I, § 35(7) affords victims “[t]he right to restitution from the offender.” This constitutional provision is included above.  A promising practice is to inform victims that they are entitled to restitution upon the conviction of defendant for losses caused by defendant’s criminal conduct. Assisting victims with the documentation of their losses—including anticipated future expenses—is recommended from the earliest moments of the case.	Tenn. Code Ann. § 40-38-102(c).

A promising practice is to have a policy and procedure in place to notify victims, at the first opportunity, that they must "request" the exercise of certain rights. Agencies should carefully maintain documentation of a victim's request to exercise rights. Victims who wish to receive the type of notice identified here should be reminded, throughout their participation in the justice system, that their contact information must be kept current with relevant agencies.
